Kristopher Foster - Neo-Nazi Radicalized By Patriot Prayer

Tue, Apr 23, 2019

Kristopher Foster marches with Joey Gibson, Patrick Stupfel, Jay Bishop, Jonathan Zimmerman, Deme Cooper, and other Patriot Prayer followers at Joey Gibson's April 29, 2017 hate rally in the Montavilla neighborhood of Portland

In an article written for Clark County Today during a series of late 2018 campus rallies in the Vancouver, WA area, a journalist interviewing Patriot Prayer founder Joey Gibson and violent Proud Boy Tiny Toese reported “both men claim that they have welcomed known neo-nazis into their group, but that those men no longer are reality, Patriot Prayer tends to attract thinly-disguised neo-Nazis who insert their ideas under the cover of Joey Gibson's constant denial, exposing more moderate followers to fascist ideologies as they are consistently reassured that they are not fascist.

Canby, Oregon resident Kristopher Foster has been a Patriot Prayer stalwart since 2017. At the beginning of his involvement, he gave every appearance of being a bored, conservative Christian business owner who stumbled into the Patriot Prayer milieu as a way to add some novelty and edginess to his political beliefs. Like many Patriot Prayer followers, however, Foster's involvement pushed him toward the increasingly public advocacy of overt neo-Nazi politics. Joey Gibson's Patriot Prayer organization has consistently functioned as an ideal system to encourage and disseminate fascist and neo-Nazi ideologies and activism, allowing its adherents to "red-pill" one another into open racism, anti-Semitism, Islamophobia, and fascist violence.

Current Details on Kristopher Foster

Name: Kristopher Russ Foster
AKA: Kris Foster; Frank Pettygrove; Terry McDonald

Vehicle: Grey GMC Sierra, OR U63CSP

Employment: Owner of S and K Delivery - (503) 913-8500 - yelp - facebook

The Beginning of Patriot Prayer's Effect on Foster

Foster first began to appear at Patriot Prayer events toward the end of April 2017, and as late as September of the same year he still engaged in the condescending "light and positivity" social media efforts characteristic of many US conservatives. On September 18, 2017, a local paper ran a story about a meme started by Foster in a Facebook group he frequented. Foster asked that participants take photographs of themselves in front of pump 9 at a central gas station in Canby, OR, posting the photographs with the hashtag #9ISMYPUMP.

Kristopher Foster posts about his social experiment.

Prior to 2014, Foster worked at Mattress World, a business owned by his Aunt Sherri Hiner, and is mentioned in a news article regarding the 2012 closing of that company. Since at least 2014, however, Foster has owned a furniture delivery company called S and K Delivery, whose yelp page touts his prior experience, saying, "I've been all around the mattress and furniture industry. I've been through all the ins and outs of warehousing to delivery and installation." Foster saw to it that his furniture delivery business also participated in the pump 9 social experiment.

S and K Delivery, the delivery business owned by Kristopher Foster, also participates in the 'pump 9' campaign.

Not three months after Foster was featured in a local paper, he began to engage increasingly publicly with Patriot Prayer members who espouse white nationalist positions, such as fascist hate preacher Allen Pucket. Within a year, Foster began to avow National Socialist ideology, and to espouse (often through trollish "alt" accounts) virulent anti-Semitic and otherwise racist positions. Kristopher Foster's wife Audra Foster (nee: Mckillip) is also an avid participant in the Patriot Prayer organization, and while she has occasionally been seen to chastise him for his excessive neo-Nazi rhetoric, she seems to have few qualms about the vast amount of harassment, violence, and fascist organizing her Patriot Prayer friends have facilitated; nor does she seem particularly bothered by any of the other neo-Nazis and white nationalists with whom she rallies.

on December 21, 2017 Kristopher Foster is seen commenting in agreement with white nationalist hate preacher and Patriot Prayer member Allen Pucket's pro-segregation Facebook post.

Foster's Participation in Patriot Prayer Events

April 29, 2017

A seminal event in the history of Patriot Prayer's association with fascists, neo-Nazis, and white nationalists; Joey Gibson's bad-faith rally in the immigrant Montavilla neighborhood of Portland was attended by enthusiastic entryists from groups like Identity Europa, the PDX Stormers, Oregon Three Percenters, the Proud Boys, and at least one neo-Nazi who would eventually become associated with The Base and the Northwest Front. Kristopher Foster was also present and, thanks to Joey Gibson, he spent the afternoon mingling with these fascists, as well as with neo-Nazi soon-to-be-murderer and Patriot Prayer follower Jeremy Christian.

Kristopher Foster marches with Patriot Prayer founder Joey Gibson and with Patriot Prayer followers such as Deme Cooper, Jonathan Zimmerman, B Patrick Stupfel, and Jay Bishop.

June 4, 2017

Joey Gibson's disgracefully racist alt-right rally featuring neo-Nazi propagandist Baked Alaska as one of its keynote speakers, was held less than two weeks after neo-Nazi Patriot Prayer follower Jeremy Christian stabbed three Portlanders in their necks on the MAX train, killing two of them. Kristopher Foster enjoyed the company of countless fascists who attended this rally, and was later filmed asking Joey Gibson's anti-Semitic guest Tim "Baked Alaska" Gionet to sign his T-shirt while he wore it.

Kristopher Foster has violent white nationalist alt-right celebrity Kyle Chapman sign his t-shirt at Joey Gibson's downtown Portland rally.

Joey Gibson and his belligerent Patriot Prayer organization held this event on the Portland waterfront, and it proved to be a magnet for fascists and white nationalists from groups such as Identity Europa, Proud Boys, PDX Stormers, the Hell Shaking Street Preachers, and the Three Percenters, many of whom crossed state lines

Shortly after neo-Nazi James Alex Fields murdered Heather Heyer at the Charlottesville “Unite The Right” rally, Portland Police helped Joey Gibson to surreptitiously change the location of his September 10, 2017 hate rally to the Vancouver Landing Amphitheater. After the rally— which was attended by a number of neo-Nazis— Patriot Prayer follower Billy Wilson attempted a Charlottesville-style vehicular murder against anti-fascist activists by driving a large truck at them while blaring “I Wish I Was In Dixie” on the vehicle’s horn. Foster was seen mingling with Proud Boys at the Amphitheatre, as well as with Patriot Prayer follower Morgan Brandfors, who attempted to hold a neo-Nazi propaganda rally on the anniversary of the murder of Mulugeta Seraw.

This event was the second Patriot Prayer attempt at holding an “It’s Okay To Be White” neo-Nazi propaganda rally. As has already been mentioned, the first event was organized by Patriot Prayer follower Morgan Brandfors for the anniversary of Mulugeta Seraw’s murder at the hands of Portland neo-Nazi gang East Side White Pride. Joey Gibson brought his young child to this event, and neglected him by the side of the overpass as he mingled with his followers such as Kristopher Foster, deceased far-right YouTuber Leo Stratton, and several neo-Nazis from the PDX Stormers organization, including neo-Nazi pedophile Jarl Rockhill.

December 9, 2017

Joey Gibson held an anti-immigrant hate rally that was attended predominantly by white nationalists, neo-Nazis, and fascists. Kristopher Foster was naturally in attendance, and socialized with fellow racists from organizations such as the PDX Stormers, Hell Shaking Street Preachers, Identity Europa, Proud Boys, and an aspiring young Hammerskin whose exposure to neo-Nazi politics likely occurred via his time alongside fascists at Patriot Prayer events.

June 17, 2018

Kristopher Foster accompanied a number of Patriot Prayer followers, who are also involved in the hate preaching group led by white nationalist Allen Pucket, to harass and incite violence against Portland's LGBTQ community at the Portland Pride Parade. Foster acted as "security" for the preachers as they spewed insults and hatred against community members, and repeatedly told LGBTQ parade attendees to commit suicide. Foster and the hate preachers then uploaded the footage they recorded from the event in order to encourage their social media followers to act on the violence they had incited against Portland's LGBTQ community.

Along with the Hell-Shaking Street Preachers, Kristopher Foster showed up at Portland's 2018 Pride parade to harass and incite violence against the local LGBTQ community. Pictured here with Foster are hate preachers Quincy Franklin (aka Quincy Anatello), Allen Pucket, and "Levi Cross."

June 24, 2018

On this date, Patriot Prayer follower Joey Alexander held a "Flag March" through the Rockwood neighborhood of Portland, which Foster attended alongside other Patriot Prayer members like anti-Semite Edie Dixon, and neo-Nazi Jimmy Willingham. Foster also livestreamed part of the march, and in his footage, can be heard making several statements about non-white passers-by being "primitive," as well as expounding on his conspiracy theory that Spanish language signage on city properties is an indicator of something akin to "white genocide."

June 30, 2018

After Patriot Prayer had been summarily routed when they attempted to hold a hate rally in Portland on June 3, Joey Gibson posted several videos openly threatening to bring far-right activists from around the United States for the explicit purpose of inciting mob violence and assaults on people in Portland. Predictably, despite Joey's clear intent to do harm, the Portland police had direct, chummy communication with him, and did everything in their power to facilitate Patriot Prayer's ability to attack Portland activists. This included attacking anti-fascists with pepper-balls early on June 30 in order to divide them so that their numbers would be fewer when Patriot Prayer charged them. Anti-fascists repelled Gibson's forces, despite their being aided by the Police, and Portland activists supported one another to recover from injuries inflicted by the fascists. Kristopher Foster was also present at this event, and wore a helmet decorated with the neo-Nazi dog-whistle slogan "It's Okay To Be White".

August 4, 2018

Joey Gibson increased his threatening rhetoric even further in the buildup to his August 4th rally— which, bizarrely, was nominally a campaign event in his failed run for U.S. Senate. Gibson encouraged his followers to bring arsenals of firearms and spoke openly about how “Before you know it, it’s going to be too late, and then the guns are going to have come out...” Proud Boys, neo-Nazis, and other bigots from thirteen states showed up, many of them wearing shirts praising the authoritarian legacy of Chilean fascist dictator Augusto Pinochet’s political murders. The Portland Police—steadfast facilitators of fascist activism—once again collaborated closely with Gibson: after discovering some of Gibson’s neo-confederate supporters in sniper positions with long-guns on the roof of a nearby parking-garage, the police brutally attacked and maimed Portland activists without provocation in order to allow Gibson’s racist followers to more easily rampage through the city. Kristopher Foster was also present at this rally, once again wearing his neo-Nazi dog-whistle “It’s Okay To Be White” helmet.

Kristopher Foster is seen in front of Patriot Prayer fascist Russell Schultz and violent videographer Kerry Hudson at Joey Gibson's August 4, 2018 hate rally. Many participants in Gibson's rallies wield large sticks as "flag poles" in the hopes that they will get the opportunity to assault someone with it instead.

We have written extensively about white nationalist Patriot Prayer grifter Haley Adams' rape-apologist #HimToo rally, as well as the racists, misogynists, and domestic abusers it attracted and elevated. Kristopher Foster, by this time a full-fledged neo-Nazi, also spoke at Haley Adams' rally. He was introduced by Tiny Toese, who is well-aware of Foster's neo-Nazi internet presence, and referred to him as "the biggest troll on the planet," before Foster took the mic to complain bitterly about an imaginary epidemic of "false accusations."

Also pictured staffing the rally are Proud Boy Tiny Toese, Islamophobic hate preacher and Portland Water Bureau employee Quincy Franklin, Proud Boy Robert Jared Fussell, Patriot Prayer anti-Semite Edie Dixon, Patriot Prayer Follower Concetta Adams, Patriot Prayer founder Joey Gibson, and Haley Adams follower Skylor Jernigan.

December 10, 2018

In December of 2018, Patriot Prayer white nationalist Haley Adams initially began calling for a series of events modeled on the yellow vest movement of France as an opportunity to create content for her endless string of crowdfunding gifts and with the goal of unseating Portland mayor Ted Wheeler. These events quickly devolved into excuses for Adams and her followers to harass, assault, and attempt to intimidate leftists at union halls and other meeting spaces. Kristopher Foster attended the first of these events outside of city hall along with anti-Semite Edie Dixon, sycophantic conspiracy theorist James Robert Wright, soon-to-be-ex Proud Boy Reggie Axtell (who publicly threatened to murder Portland mayor Ted Wheeler), Jeremy Christian wannabe Skylor Jernigan, Proud Boy James Johnson, and Proud Boy Kody Dean Smith.

January 20, 2019

On January 20, 2019, Haley Adams, Alyssa Vinsonhaler, Keith Campbell, Catherine A House, Travis T Nelson, Nathan Strong, a conspiracist Patriot Prayer follower named Jean who uses the online handle "JPlorable," and several other Patriot Prayer followers all harassed and threatened the 5th Annual Children's March for Social Justice which was taking place as part of Martin Luther King Day weekend. After Haley Adams and several of her followers were ejected from the park where the march was starting, they repeatedly drove past the event yelling insults and slurs outside of the window and insinuating on livestream that they might attack participants with their vehicle. Kristopher Foster was not physically present with them, but was participating in the chat with the livestream, and made jokes about Charlottesville while encouraging them to attack the children's march.

As Haley Adams livestreams her threats and harassment of a children's MLK Day march, Kristopher Foster is seen making a joke about the car used by neo-Nazi James Alex Fields to murder Heather Heyer in Charlottesville. Also seen commenting is Angelic Love Hutchinson aka Ireland Northrup, another staunch ally of white nationalist Haley Adams and the rest of Patriot Prayer.

Now, onto my political opinions that I have failed to clarify until now. I am against a wall if it only includes the Mexican border; however, should the deal also include a Canadian border, then I am for it, as defense is defense. If walls are racist for targeting only Mexico, then I would think a Canadian wall would cancel that point, and a wall for both borders would truly be for border defense than for any other reason.
